LETTERS...

Gentlemen:

We thought the story on Bucks County's prison by Johanna Pogson in your May issue was a superlative and extremely enlightened piece of writing and feel PANORAMA and Miss Pogson should be congratulated on it.

For use by the Bucks County Citizens Prison Committee (of which the writer is Chairman) we are interested in obtaining 1,000 reprints of the article.

We will be very grateful, indeed, if you will help us make this fine article available for more distribution to Bucks County citizens who might be stimulated to help the Committee support Major Case in his wonderful work.

IF WE ONLY KNEW

If we only knew that the smiles we see
Often hide the tears that would fain be free,
Would we not more tender and loving be,
If we only knew?
If we only knew that the words we say
Oft may drive the peace from some heart away,
Would we speak those words in the selfsame way,
If we only knew?
If we only knew that some weary heart
Has been burdened more by our thoughtless art,
Would we cause the tears from those eyes to start,
If we only knew?
If we only knew, as we onward go,
Many things that here we can never know,
For more patient love we would often show,
If we only knew?

POTPOURRI: It's a red hot Father's Day with the temperature in the 90's, but with undershirt and shorts and my trusty Royal Portable, this piece is being hammered out in time to meet Publisher Dick Alliger's PANORAMA deadline . . . Glad to hear that shortly our publisher will become Benedict Alliger . . . Never could figure out how he remained single so long . . . I guess you can't have something worthwhile for nothing but we got a jolt when it was announced that the establishment of a junior college in Bucks County, will cost the poor old taxpayers at least an extra five mills real estate tax . . . Personally, I'd like to see the results of a county-wide vote on this issue.

PROBABLY THE most unique store in Bucks County, or anywhere else for that matter, is THE VILLAGE STORE in New Hope. You will find there, cheese for every taste, including low calorie GJETOST and MYOST, from Norway. I thought I had the owner stumped, but a telephone call to our Meadow Lane home in D-Town from VILLAGE STORE, informed us that our Norway cheese is now in stock. Perhaps the most unusual display of merchandise in this store is to be found in the Honey Department. There are many unusual things to see in New Hope, but in the Honey Corner of THE VILLAGE STORE you will find honey from thirty foreign countries and every state in the United States — for sale . . . The Thomases came home with a pound of Pure Hymettus Thyme Honey, packed by Dion & Razis, 23 Socrates St., Athens, Greece (delicious). By no means miss a visit to THE VILLAGE STORE at 16 South Main St., New Hope.

RENAISSANCE IN PRISON ADMINISTRATION: Major Jack Case, retired U. S. Marine officer, now warden of the Bucks County Prison, is placing Bucks County on the prison administration map of the entire country. This reporter attended the dedication of the $150,000 Rehabilitation Center in Doylestown Township recently, where we saw a real eye-opener that will house 48 inmates in austere surroundings, minus detention walls and cell bars.

Thanks to Major Case and a few others, including the late J. Augustus Cadwallader, in whose memory a plaque was unveiled, Bucks County's modern correctional program is now attracting nation-wide attention.

Major Case made it clear again at the dedication ceremony that "we are in the salvage business, not the junk business."

Covering court for many years and prison breaks as well,

OUR COVER

OUR COVER

This month's cover shows a scene along the Delaware Canal in New Hope, as drawn by Bucks County artist Vernon Wood. See page 14 for more work by this artist. Starting on Page 8, we offer part two of "Along The Delaware" by Roy C. Kulp. This interesting series has drawn much comment from readers. It will be continued next month. Next month will bring many other interesting articles you won't want to miss.

COMMENT

A STEP FORWARD

A new step forward in transportation for the Central Bucks area took place last month, when, through the efforts of C of C transportation man John DeSousa, the PTC extended the Route 22 Bus Line from Olney Avenue (at the subway) to the Doylestown Shopping Center. Ground was recently broken for the new Central Bucks Airport, and a deep water port is scheduled for Bucks County soon. Bucks County is on the move, and continues to grow at a rapid pace.

Historical Editor

Much history has taken place along the banks of our famous Delaware River.

There is a small brownstone marker in Upper Makefield Township with an inscription that reads "Near this spot Washington Crossed the Delaware on Christmas night 1776, the eve of the Battle of Trenton". Known as McKonkey's Ferry up to 100 years ago, today this hallowed spot is Washington Crossing. It was here that General George Washington concentrated twenty-four hundred men that December of 1776, and by midnight he planned to have his men across the Delaware River and on to Trenton. This was where the Hessian troops were resting and celebrating Christmas. The Battle of Trenton was a turning point in the Revolutionary War.

Several miles further up the Delaware River we pass the Thompson-Neeley House, part of which was built in 1702. This house served as General Sterling's Headquarters. It was here too, that Lieutenant James Monroe, (later to become President of the United States) was also quartered that cold December in 1776. Nearby is located the old Simpson Grist Mill, built in 1740. This old mill supplied grain for Washington's army while it was encamped there.

One half mile north, along the River's edge, unmarked headstones mark the graves of America's first unknown soldiers. These brave men gave their lives that bitter cold winter here in Bucks County so that the freedom proclaimed 188 years ago this month, (July 4, 1776) might survive.

Another of the well known attractions of the Washington Crossing area is Bowman's Tower. Named in honor of a Englishman John Bowman, the tower offers a magnificent view of the Delaware.

John Bowman was an English surgeon of the fleet sent out in 1696 under the command of the now notorious Captain Kidd. The fleet was supposed to suppress piracy on the high seas. The ship was captured and the crew was scattered throughout the east. Bowman settled near present day Newtown.

Several years later, Bowman headed up the Delaware River where, legend says, he built a cabin on the summit of what is known today as Bowman's Hill, the site of the famous tower.

Later in life, he returned to Newtown, and lived in a log house on the edge of town. He lived here until his death. His friends remembered he always expressed a desire that his body be brought back to "his hill" overlooking the Delaware, then called "Nenehawcshung", an indian name meaning "Magnificent Hill". So he was buried on the eastern apex of the hill. From this time on, (probably about 1712), this was known as Bowman's Hill — a sepulcher and a monument to Dr. John Bowman, a pirate's friend of the 18th century.

(To be continued next month)

We also sell a funny-looking car.

We sell a car that looks like a beetle. And a station wagon that looks like a bus. But we (and all our fellow VW dealers) think of them a little differently. We think both VWs look just like what they are.

The VW Sedan carries 4 people. The station wagon carries 8 (bag and baggage). The wagon also handles a staggering amount of just stuff. (It has 170 cubic feet of space, compared to about 105 in conventional wagons.)

Both VWs have air-cooled rear engines. (No water or anti-freeze needed; terrific traction on ice and snow.) Both park in practically the same space. (The wagon is only 9 inches longer than the sedan.) Both defy obsolescence. (Nobody knows what year Volkswagen you drive. Except you.) And both have restored a sense of proportion to the size of cars.

The VW Sedan is a pretty familiar sight, so not too many people laugh at it any more. But the VW wagon is still good for a few chuckles.

Suggestion: have some fun yourself. Come and take either or both for a ride today.

I am one of those who hope the plan works out. Some of the more hardened police officers are holding back, crossing their fingers.

Prison labor built the beds and other furnishings in the rooms of the new Center out of material salvaged from the Recorder of Deeds office.

"Proper salvaging of the men who come to this institution is going to save the taxpayers of Bucks county many thousands of dollars in the long run," Major Case told me. "We are only going to bring those here who we believe can be rehabilitated and most of them will be alcoholics. Failure to treat alcoholism in Bucks county and other counties in this country has cost incalculable sums of money."

Major Case closed his few remarks by thanking the Prison Board and others for their cooperation, and turning to the board members seated behind him, declared: "I must have these fine men in back of me, especially when a prisoner escapes with a rabbit in his arms, and I don't get fired."

ODDS AND ENDS: Reading Railroad's top trainman George Kohl (D-Town), informed me of the death of William H. (Bill) Whitem, a retired pharmacist, at his home 937 Bethlehem Pike, Flourtown, at the age of 90 years . . . How many Doylestownians remember "Doc" Whitem when he served as a pharmacist in a mid-town Doylestown drugstore some years ago? . . . Trainman Kohl is sporting a lock on his new engine-in-the-rear sports car, due to the experience he had with some pranksters who poured a lot of dirt and sugar into the gas tank . . . Wonder why hoodlums like those who upset a lot of tombstones in the cemetery of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Doylestown, can sleep at night . . . I'd like to see any of the guilty ones before any of our five Bucks County jurists . . . A home near Doylestown was recently burglarized during a heavy thunder shower, the loss being approximately $4,000, according to the grapevine. (Two unsolved crimes as of Father's Day, 1964) . . . The Doylestown American Legion Carnival, July 1 through 4 and July 8 through 11, should be another rousing success this year . . . The Albert R. Atkinson, Jr. Post No. 210, is one of Doylestown's greatest assets.

THIRTY: Mike Ellis, gracious director of the Bucks County Playhouse (The State Theatre of Pennsylvania), has selected "A Thousand Clowns," a delightful comedy about a free-lance writer who lives with a young boy to whom he tried to be a father — for one of his 25th anniversary attractions, July 13th to 25th . . . The other Ellis attraction, starting June 29th for two weeks, is Shelley Berman in "A Perfect Frenzy" . . . Always grateful for the many courtesies this free-lancer has received from our friend,

The Saving of The Bell

by C. Norman Detweiler

Bucks County, home of its founder, William Penn, is rich in the early history of these United States. Upper Bucks, though not wrested from the wilderness as early as the Lower End, has had its share in chronicling the development of this great country of ours.

Though no Revolutionary battles were fought here nor did Washington and his Continental Army bivouac here, patriots of The Great Swamp (Richland area) helped in the war for independence by furnishing volunteers for the Army, horses, food and materials, gunpowder and cannonballs.

It was in Quakertown, then known as Richland, that the Liberty Bell was hidden one night in September 1777 on its journey to Allentown where it was taken to escape capture by the British who were occupying Philadelphia. At that time it was not yet called the Liberty Bell, but was termed the State House bell. It, together with bells from the city churches were removed to prevent them from falling into the hands of the British who so badly needed them to melt down and cast into cannon and cannonballs for use against the Continental soldiers.

The bells were hauled to safety by Lehigh County farmers on their return home from taking farm produce, including Lehigh Applejack, to their customers in the City of Brotherly Love. A guard of Continental soldiers accompanied the wagon train as shown in this old photo of an early painting of the bell on this historic event.

Of particular local interest is the story handed down from generation to generation that the party spent a night in Quakertown on the last leg of the journey to Allentown. It was behind a stone Colonial building in the vicinity of the stagecoach inn, now the Red Lion Hotel, that the wagon and the famous bell were hidden beneath a pile of hay while the men spent the night in the inn and the horses were quartered in the sheds nearby.

The stone building, said to be the oldest house in Quakertown, is still standing, is in good condition, and has for years been known as Liberty Hall. A private residence for a long time, it is now occupied by a barber shop, and there is a feeling here that it should be municipally owned and converted into a museum.

at were designed to provide commemoration rather than exaggerated celebration even carried through to the point in Allentown, via Bethlehem, and delphia, and it was taken back to the State House, now Independence Hall.

Thus Quakertown and that band of patriots back in 1777 played a part in saving the State House bell, not knowing at the time that they were preserving it as the symbol of liberty as it is now known throughout the world.

Meet Vernon Wood

VERNON WOOD, born in Point Pleasant, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, has found inspiration for his landscapes within a ten mile radius of his birthplace. Stationed in Italy with the Air Force during World War II, he managed to find time to paint but continued his favorite scenes, not the Roman countryside. Rapid growth in the population is causing changes in many areas of the country. The artist's aim is to capture and preserve on canvas the rural beauty of the country as it is today, or as it has been in the past.

MR. WOOD does not limit himself to landscapes, but includes abstract and human interest paintings in his work. He says he paints mainly "for the people."

Mr. Wood, now a resident of Doylestown, has run a school for persons interested in painting, and has had many exhibitions. His work is available as prints, hand colored prints and on note paper. Many of his fine paintings are also for sale. His work is on display at Ember'glo, 27 W. Mechanic St., New Hope, and at The Village Trader in Peddlers Village.

Panorama is proud to offer readers this sampling of Mr. Wood's work as the first in a series of works by Bucks County Artists. (Photo by Maddox)

WE WOULD like to name P.T.C. Bus Route 22, "The John DeSousa Route" for the time being at least . . . It was this public-spirited North Main Street gentleman who did more than anyone else to get the Route 22 bus line extended to the Doylestown Shopping Center, direct from the Olney Subway Station in Philadelphia, a one-hour ride over smooth concrete for less than one dollar . . . And when it comes to a noon-day luncheon, after a bus line celebration, there's no place anywhere that can match Conti's Cross Keys Inn (Doylestown), where Walt and his Dad, Frank, are hosts extraordinary . . . Did you ever know that a syndicate of rich New York Chinese at one time purchased a lower Bucks County farm for a central burying ground for all Chinese who die in the eastern section of the United States? There was objection to the project and it never developed as originally planned.

Strong Havana--- with Mild Lancaster

by

Helen Rowe

What could Havana possibly have to do with Lancaster?

Lots . . . in the late 1800's and early 1900's!

Ask any old-time cigar maker!

Yes, in the old days Lancaster furnished much of the tobacco used in cigars. And Bucks County furnished many of the factories that took the Pennsylvania tobacco . . . or the Wisconsin . . . or the Florida . . . or the Havana tobacco . . . or a combination of several . . . and made them into choice home-made cigars. The whole valley around here was abounding with cigars makers — especially around the Sellersville, Perkasio and Perkiomen areas.

The oldest cigar factory in these parts belonged to Henry Krause of Perkiomen. The A. J. Dimmig was next oldest. His factory made and packed cigars shipped all over the country, their best-selling brand being "Havana Blend," — a mixture of strong Havana and mild Lancaster tobacco.

Cigar-making was one of the most likeable jobs around. Any old cigar-maker will reminisce with a smile and a shake of the head. "It was a nice job. Real independent. We talked about politics, baseball, the weather, horse races. . . The bosses of the cigar factories were most always nice and considerate."

Otto Eisenlohr was a particularly good boss. He'd been a cigar-maker himself at one time. He understood what made a smooth-running factory. To this day, old employees recall the way Otto visited the sick, sent flowers and condolences when there was a death. Once, he even stopped a sheriff's sale, bought the property and returned it to the owners. Otto also insisted on a strict health measure unknown in that day: no biting off the ends of the cigar by the makers! He advertised this feature with the pitch "Made under sanitary conditions!"

Everybody loved to get into the act of cigar-making. As soon as a boy turned fourteen, he quit school and started right in at some cigar factory. Men of many different trades . . . who were barbers or storekeepers by day . . . worked at cigar-making at night in their homes. Women too. "Wish I could make cigars yet," says one man's wife. Although many worked in their homes, most went to the factories.

Being a factory owner was a fine art . . . and an occupying one. The boss usually made a trip once a month into Philadelphia to the wholesale tobacco dealers on Arch street between Second and Third. The warehouses were three and four stories high. He got the tobacco in cases weighing from 300 to 400 pounds. He'd stay about two days and a night with a salesman, spending much of his time personally sampling the tobacco by smoking cigars in the sales offices. The factory owner could judge just exactly where the different tobaccos came from, — whether from Florida, Sumatra or Puerto Rico or whatever.

Yes, the cigar-making era was a memorable one. Husbands, wives, children, sweethearts all worked side by side, while the conversation flowed. A number of area residents claim that the Cigar-Makers Union was the first union to be organized in America. Whatever its historical significance, its beloved reputation is indisputable. Cigar-making was both fun and profit.

But mechanization in the early twenties of this century dealt the death blow to the hand-made cigar. By 1927 most of the factories in this area had to close down. Over a thousand employees were let go. Most of the men opened small businesses like restaurants or pool rooms. One, today, owns a snack bar frequented by teenagers.

Not one old-time cigar-maker, though, no matter what his business today, can forget the good old days when he rolled "strong Havana with mild Lancaster" and argued the news of the day.

Here is the entire work force of "Moyer & Detweiler's Segar Manufacturing Plant and Store," about 1915.

A ship unloading Havana tobacco at Philadelphia for shipment to Bucks County's cigar factories, during the last century.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW: George Washington was America's first etiquette authority, and not Emily Post. . . . We wonder what George would have to say about the new sacks the girls are wearing!!! It probably would be something like this: "Wear not a bag in public unless you have something to put in it."

Our first President's book on etiquette was entitled "The Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation." Washington listed 110 rules. He deplored dunking and nose blowing. "Blow not your broth at the table, stay until it cools off," was one rule.

And still another of Washington's rules: "Do not express joy before one sick or in pain. Break no jests that are sharp or biting, and if you deliver anything witty or pleasant, abstain from laughter thereat yourself."

* * *

We heard a youngster talking the other day. He loudly claimed that he thought to study history was "for the birds" and a real waste. "What do I care about all those old things that happened?" We avoided the discussion, but some words said by Woodrow Wilson some years ago came to mind: "A nation which does not remember what it was yesterday, does not know what it is today, nor what it is trying to do. We are trying to do a futile thing if we do not know where we came from or what we are about."

We will have rains through the 4th (about 1"), with unsettled weather from the 5th to the 7th, followed by more rain through the 11th. It will be clear but very hot through the 16th with some shower activity between the 17th and 20th. # Keeping Bucks County Physically Fit!

Shortly after the late President Kennedy started his physical fitness program, a young man and wife opened the Bucks County Health Club on North Main Street, Doylestown. Mr. and Mrs. George Snyder saw the need of such a business in fast growing Central Bucks County.

The Bucks County Health Club offers the very latest in equipment, and caters to both men and women. They offer steam cabinets, mechanical tables and chairs, exercycles, in addition to all the body building equipment.

The photos on this page (by Richard Kaplinski) show some of the activity at the Health Club.

Did you know that the Mercer Museum in Doylestown, built and designed by Dr. Henry Chapman Mercer in 1916 has been favorably compared to Frank Lloyd Wright's Guggenheim Museum in an article by an associate editor of PROGRESSIVE ARCHITECTURE which may be read at the Library, Pine and Ashland Streets, Doylestown.

"WHERE THE BETTER PICNICS GO"

PLANNING A PICNIC? Then consider for a moment the many fine extras you get when you follow "the leaders" to West Point Park. Conveniently located nearby, West Point Park can handle picnics from 5 to 5000 persons. We have many rides that will add to the fun of your outing. There are fire places, service kitchens, charcoal grates, shaded groves and so many other features.

OUR CATERING SERVICE is also available.

So, for a picnic or for just some fun with the family, take a drive to West Point Park (Friday nite is Dollar Nite, Ride yourself silly on all our rides from 7 to 10 PM for just $1!)

"BEST MAN" CAST SET BY TOWN & COUNTRY

Chuck Read, Pipersville, and Howard Lenzer, Chalfont, have been cast as the chief aspirants for the Presidential nomination in the Town and Country Players production of "The Best Man". July 10,11,17,18 at the Players Barn, R. 263 west of Buckingham, according to an announcement, by Mrs. Jeanette B. Brown, director.

Read, who plays the part of a ruthless, political opportunist, is a T & C veteran having appeared in such shows as "Dark at the Top of the Stairs", "Uncle Vanya" and Blythe Spirit". Lenzer, his intellectual, Secretary of State opponent, first appeared in a Town & Country show last year in "Major Barbara". He has been featured in Phillips Mill, Lenape Valley and Abington Music Theater productions in the past.

Sharing top billing with the "candidates" is Frank Bjornsgaard, Doylestown R. D., who portrays a former U. S. President. The aspirants' wives are Mrs. Barbara Ermentrout, Newtown, Mrs. Dottie Mandell, Chalfont.

The show, written by Gore Vidal and initially produced in 1960, traces the infighting among candidates for the presidential nomination at a political convention. Playing major roles in the political entourages of the two candidates will be — George Andrews, Lambertville, N.J.; Constance Doxey, New Hope; Oliver Groman, Doylestown; John Brundage, Warminster; Myles Mandall, Chalfont.

Others in the cast include — Thomas Ryan, Carversville; Clyde Baker, Doylestown R. D.; Chuck Joyner, Warminster; Katherine Mosher, New Hope; Jack Pukanez, Warrington; Mary Ann Willey, Pipersville.

Reservations for tickets can be obtained by calling 822-2256, the Center Casuals Shop in the Doylestown Shopping Center or at the Village Traders, Peddlers Village.

Centre Bridge was originally known as Readings Ferry.

New Idea In Summer Camps

Jose Limon, internationally famous dancer, visits with students from the "Foundation of The Modern Dance" at a special party held at Ramblerny Camp for the Performing Arts in Center Bridge.

A new trend in summer camps is more and more in evidence these days. No longer does the word "camp" only call to mind tents, log cabins, ants, and "roughing it." Nowadays, the accommodations may be practically palatial for camps, and campers may be found hard at work for a good portion of each day instead of undergoing the usual camp routine. The reason for this change is that many of the children of today are too sophisticated for the ordinary camp. They need more challenge and more interesting activity while still having the benefit of a healthy, well-rounded and supervised outdoor life.

Ramblerny Camp for the Performing Arts, situated on a beautiful 85-acre country estate 1/2 mile west of Center Bridge, is an example of the new trend. Recently Ramblerny got into the cultural groove with a demonstration of modern dance combined with a swim picnic. Parents, interested dance students, and well-known dance teachers were treated to dance exhibitions by some of the most talented students of the Philadelphia Dance Academy and the Foundation for Modern Dance Education of Hackensack, N. J. The students, who came to Ramblerny to dance particularly for the internationally famous dancer, Jose Limon, ranged in age from eight through fifteen, and were gracefully professional as they demonstrated dance techniques including labannotation, improvisation, and both individual and group work, which they created entirely on their own.

Ruth and Charles Woodford, directors of Ramblerny, which they just purchased in March, are extremely enthusiastic over the upcoming summer dance program. "The students are inspired by the fact that such notables in the field as Jose Limon and Nona Schumran will be 'here,'" said Mrs. Woodford. "They will work hard, but they will love it."

And where will these dedicated and disciplined campers lay their weary heads at the end of each busy day? Not on an army cot in a tent or log cabin, but on thick mattressed beds in handsome rooms . . . with tile baths, no less! Maybe the good old camping days were missing something after all.

We heard a rather good story the other day on Delaware Valley College Athletic Director NED LINTA. Ned, as a dutiful husband made great plans to get his wife an anniversary present so he would not be "in the doghouse". But, as many husbands, he couldn't remember which day it was — the 6th or 7th. To be safe, he asked his wife which of the two days it was. She told him the 7th. Rather pleased with himself, Ned presented Mrs. Linta with her Anniversary present on the 7th. Everything was fine.

He had the right day, but — the wrong month! He was a month early! "Some days you just can't win."

Around Town

Doylestown's GEORGE CARVER, JR. was elected District Governor of District 14-A of The Lions International at the State Convention held in Harrisburg recently. George is probably the best known Lion in Eastern Pennsylvania and no doubt one of the hardest working. Congratulations, George on the honor.

* * *

S. J. (Sam) MIRABELLO of Feasterville, a Township Supervisor for Lower Southampton Township, a building contractor and an active GOP political leader, also finds time for his hobby — movie producing! Sam has produced several "shorts" that have won awards at The Venice Film Festival, the American Film Festival and the 1958 Brussels Worlds Fair. He maintains his own film lab in his Feasterville home. It is amazing the great amount of talent that is contained within the borders of Bucks County.

RECIPE BOOK OFFERED

For those Bucks County Cooks who like to try something a little different, we suggest you write for a new booklet put out by the National Pretzel Bakers Institute over in Pottstown. The recipe booklet, "Pretzels, something new in Your Cooking," is free for the asking by writing "Pretzels," Pottstown, Pa.

Included in this new recipe booklet are recipes for "Pennsylvania Dutch Hash," "Seafood Surprise," Weiner Schnitzel," "Apple and Pretzel Pie" and "Chocolate Peppermint Pretzel Cups." At this date we haven't tried any of the recipes, but those who have, rave over the new taste thrills they have created. Mention Panorama when you write. The booklet is a good addition to any cookbook collection.

SAFETY ON THE HIGHWAYS

SPEED KILLS

Speed is a killer on American highways. Regardless of how safe a driver you believe you might be, in case of mechanical failure, human shortcomings, or some slight misjudgment, the speeding driver can almost certainly become involved in a fatal accident.

Cold hard statistics have proven this point many times over the nation. Virtually all automobile operators think of themselves as careful drivers. But when an accident does occur, it is speed that kills.

Our citizens are granted an operator's license for driving vehicles on our highways. This is a privilege, not a right.

All persons driving vehicles on highways are urged to drive at a careful and prudent speed. They should not drive at greater or lesser speed than is reasonable and proper having due regard to traffic, surface and width of the highway and other restrictions or conditions that may exist. Nobody should drive a vehicle at such speed as to endanger the life, limb or property of another. No motorist should drive at a speed greater than will permit him to bring the vehicle to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead.

Next time you have the urge to speed, think of what would happen should a child dart in front of your auto. Try to picture the results of another vehicle pulling into the highway without having seen your approaching car. Remember . . . SPEED KILLS.

SYLVAN SETTING

Nestled on a two acre wooded bluff, this custom built rancher enjoys a superb view of the neighboring farms. The mahogany panelled living room with its massive stone fireplace adds character to the property. Also dining room with terrazzo floor, modern kitchen, three pleasant bedrooms and two baths. There are other features too numerous to describe, so call for complete details and an inspection appointment. The price, $32,000.

Site is Important In Design Choice

Don't let appearance and convenience be your only guide in selecting a design for a leisure home, warns Douglas Fir Plywood Association.

Be sure design is applicable to the site.

For mountain cabins check prevailing snow loads. At relatively high altitudes it is necessary to build a roof sturdy enough to withstand up to 10 feet of snow, or about 125 pounds per square foot.
